The phrasing of Bulier's report, when read between the lines, tends to confirm the theory that the main object o' the third passage of the river was secured when the Dutch forces were held in that quarter and temporarily occupied, while the concentration of British forces was going on toward Modder River.

While the details of a rumored Dutch flanking movement against Buller's army and also of an ominous sortie from Ladysmith on the day following the retreat were awaited with anxious interest, Modder River became yesterday the central point for English eyes. Roberts was there, and the curtain might rise any moment upon the chief military drama of the campaign. The silence of expectancy was not broken at midnight. Few dispatches had been received at Fleet street from any quarter, and rumor-mongers had made little use of the press agencies. The War Office had exhausted its energies in supplying a job lot of casuality lists, and the war editions of the evening papers had only twice-told tales of the Rensburg skirmish and Vasi Krants.

There was also a story which interested the holders of mining stocks to the effect that the story which interested the holders of mining stocks to the effect that the Transvasi government had refused to accept payment for licenses unless the whole board of directors was present at Pretoria. [BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] England has concluded that the time has nearly arrived for allow-ing mediation in the South African war, and has suggested to this govern-Menacing British Forces war, and has suggested to this government that she will be prepared very soon to accept the good offices of the United States, ending the conflict upon a basis satisfactory to the Transvaal Republic. This may seem like rather a rash statement, but it is a fact that Lord Pauncefote has had several talks, rather informal ones, upon the subject rather informal ones, upon the subject rather informal ones, upon the subject with Secretary of State Hay, and the matters have gone even further than that. During these conferences Mr. Hay suggested to Lord Pauncefote that, under The Hague treaty, more than one power may offer mediation, and pointed out the good effect, both in Europe and this country, were Germany, jointly with the United States, to offer friendly mediation. offer friendly mediation.

This act on the part of Germany would serve to show all Europe that friendly relations exist between Lon-don and Berlin, while the effect in this country would be popularly better than if the United States alone offered mediation. Lord Pauncefote agreed with these views of the case, and consequently the German Ambassador has would be nearer 600,000 than half a million.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Wyndham referred to the government's confidence in the power and splendid efficiency of the fleet, saying it was never greater or more able than now. The government, Mr. Wyndham said, was not making an appeal for meney and men in a panic. The end was much nearer than a year ago, but it had led to a reduction of the home military defenses, which served to justify the present demands for an increase of the resources for home defense.

The Secretary of State for War. Lord Lansdowne, furnished the House of Lords with a statement similar to that of Mr. Wyndham in the Commons. The Prince of Wales and the Duke of Cambridge were interested listeners in the House of Lords.

'In the House of Commons today, A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury and government leader, denied the statement recently published that Sir J. Edmund Monson, the British Ambassador to France, has been temporarily ordered to withdraw from Paris, owing to the offensive attitude, of the French press with regard to the war in South Africa.

In the House of Lords, Lord Lansdowne, Secretary of State for Waranswering a question, said that Gen. Carrington was destined for a command in South Africa, and added: "Gen. Roberts is now at Modder River and in command of the whole force there."

we must face it hereafter; first, from the standpoint of duty, closing our eyes for the time being upon the material wealth of the islands and the trade of the empire of China, the bulk of which, through the possession of these islands, will come to us. Before this nation there will be a motley people, divided into hostile tribes. Chief among them, now led by a corrupt scoundrel, will be the Tagalos, who first plotted murder and massacre, but when discovered sought to destroy in war the very men who had taken from their throat the pitliess hand of Spain, which had choked them for centuries. The Philippine population is largely Malay. It is indolent, and its leaders are unscrupulous and corrupt. It numbers among its members naked savages and even cannibals. Play with words as you will, the fact remains that these people are incapable of self-government, in the American sense of that word, and the maintenance of law and order in the Philippines means the maintenance of American sovereignty in the Philippines. The men who want the United States to withdraw from the Philippines are basing their arguments, primarily, upon the technicalities of their individual interpretation of our national Constitution. As citizons of this republic, and members of the Republican party, which has always upheld the Constitution, we claim our right to put an interpretation upon that great instrument consistent with the maintenance of law and order in these islands. And, unlike some of our opponents, in determining whether or not these people are capable of self-government we will not look solely and alone to the letter of the Constitution, but in addition we will look at the people we must not consider the leaders alone, Great Subjects Treated of by peaker of the afternoon. He said, in "We may legislate against private monopoly till doomsday, but so long as we do not deprive these institutions of their ownership of the means of production and distribution, we need entertain no hope that they will cease of production and distribution, we need entertain no hope that they will cease to torment us, for experience has shown that they thrive under hostile legislation. The remedy will be found in an attack upon the system of which these monopolies are the broof. Revolutionize the control of production and distribution. Make is Democratic. It is now an imperial system. Substitute public for private ownership. Throw off private for public monopoly. Crush the rule of money and establish the rule of men. Do not destroy the machines nor blot out the details for swift and perfect handling of commodities but make things for people to use not to fight over and maybe die later for want of. Produce and distribute wealth for the enrichment of the race; for the gratification of needs and the satisfaction of worthy aspitations; not for private profit and plunder. MISCHIEF OF MONOPOLY.

J. D. Miller of Illinois was the next speaker. He said in part:

"The mischievous results of monopoly have caused most, if not all of the American States, as well as the American States, as well as the matural rights of men. We have can show that they are sulpust. "My right to freedom is the basis of my right to sak my neighbor as much as I please for my leighbor and I unite for the purpose of raising the exchange with us without invading our liberties. Justice requires that all public utilities be operated at cost, giving to each citizen, great or small, the same service for the same pay. Justice requires that the burden of taxation be placed where it belongs, upon ground rent: that no citizen may be deprived at his share in the common gift of God. Neglect these reforms and our liberties must survive or perish in a consultant."

MR. SULZER'S YAWP.

Congressman William Sulzer of New fork received a hearty welcome when resented to the audience. He said in

Mrs. Stevens, on behalf of 300,000 members of the W.C.T.U., expressed what she declared was the general dissatisfaction of the people at the decision of Atty.-Gen. Griggs regarding the sale of liquor in the army canteens. She appealed to the President as Commander-in-chief of the Army to "right this great wrong," assuring the Executive of the committee's hopeand belief that if he were obliged to accept as final the adverse decision of the Attorney-General he would give his support and approval to such further legislative effort as might lead to the result desired, she said, by good people everywhere.

Mrs. Stevens stated that there was abundant testimony to show that the people do not consider the question settled, and called upon Mrs. Ellis to present letters that had been received relative to the subject.

Mrs. Ellis then presented to the President 200 letters received since January 1, and addressed to His Excellency, protesting against the interpretation of the law given by the Attorney-General, these letters being classified in groups from professions and business men and organizations from all parts of the country. She said that in addition to these letters there were 15,000 petitions from churches and philanthropic societies. While the reply of the president was most courteous, and he expressed his approval of the work of the W.C.T.U., he stated in response to a direct question from Mrs. Stevens that the opinion of the Attorney-General must be accepted as final. He wanted it understood, he added, that after the temperance committee waited on him in July asking for a reconsideration of the accepted as final. He wanted it understood, he added, that after the temperance committee waited on him in July asking for a reconsideration of the feet that he must adhere to his first interpretation of the law. The President further stated that, "Whenever Congress shall speak in plain terms on this subject, his part of the government stands ready to execute the law."

To this question Mr. Wyndham replied £450,000.

Bir Henry Campbell-Bannerman said he could not be expected to pronounce an opinion on the scheme suddenly, but he added, he believed nine-tenthe of his hearers were ready to do almost anything for the purpose of the present war, but would like to regard it as a war measure alone, leaving the question of the future increase and rearrangements open for future discussion. It was explained in the lobbles of the House of Commons that Mr. Wyndham meant to convey that all the supplementary estimates asked for were due to the war except £420,000 required for the new scheme to close the financial year of March 31.

respondent, under date of December 29, writes:

"The straits of a beleaguered city are only just beginning to come to Mafeking. It is now nearly six weeks since Mafeking was proclaimed as being in a state of siege, and although there has been no single opportunity of any commercial reciprocity between ourselves and the outside world, the ruling prices are at present but very little above normal, distress is wholly absent, danger is purely incidental and, indeed, it would seem, as Col. Baden-Powell said in a recent order, that 'everything in the garden was lovely.'

"From time to time Col. Baden-Powell has issued orders congratulating the townspeople upon their spirit and commiscrating with them under their unfortunate predicament. They are indeed deserving of great sympathy, since the manly way in which they have come forward in support of the

These are the more material elements of our defenses and to them may be added the strength of the Protectorate regiment, the Buchuanaland Rifies and the native contingent, numbering with the town guard some 800 men. Against this we must place an enemy whose tactics are surprising everybody, whose artillery fire is admirable, whose guns are numerous and first class. fidence-London Pamphleteers Busy Explaining the Cause of Failure of British Preliminary Campaigns.

[A. P. DAY REPORT.]

LONDON, Feb. 12.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Not a line of war news had been received here since yesterday, and this morning Great Britain remained waiting anxiously to learn which side would succeed in striking first. The feeling, however, was much more confident than at the opening of last week, in consequence of the widespread belief that the hands of Field Marshal Lord Roberts and Gen. Kitchener are now Roberts and Gen. Kitchener are now firmly gripping the helm, and that whatever happens the campaign will now be waged under careful, compre-hensive plans, in which all the forces whatever happens the campaign will now be waged under careful, comprehensive plans, in which all the forces will cooperate. Both sides seem to be collecting themselves for attack.

The left horn of the Boer army is creeping through Zululand and threatening the British right, and at Chieveley Gen. Joubert with 6000 men is reported to be endeavoring to attack Gen.
Buller. Boer aggressiveness has already developed, and has met with a repulse at Rensberg, while from whatnow becomes the most important point of the campaign, the Modder River, comes the news of ceaseless activity and redoubled vigilance. These reports create hopefulness in Great Britain rather than anxiety, for the impression exists that the Boer aggressiveness will give the British froops their longyearned-for opportunity and tend greatly to assist the broad plan of campaign which Lord Roberts may shortly be expected to set in motion at the Modder River. In the meanwhile Ladysmith must await the exigencies attendant upon the more important military movements now on foot.
It is said positively that Gen. Macbonald's withdrawal from Koodoosberg was ordered by Gen. Methuen under Lord Roberts's instructions.

Frank Harris, former editor of the Saturday Review. In a pamphlet published today, reiterates the view which the St. James Gazette has been insisting on—that "quality and quantity is what England needs to beat the Boers," and that "England always fails to learn by experience." He adds:

"The battle of Saratoga should have taught every Englishman the true theory of war. There the American militia not only defeated the English troops, but forced them to an ignominious surrender, and, mark it, those same English troops were the hest soldiers of their time.

"Or take a still clearer case—Welfailure is given by Arnold White, the author, who attributes everything to the baneful influence of London's smart society. He has written a letter on this subject to the Daily Chronicle, which has given it much prominence. In it he says:

"Disreputable women who affect the conduct of a lady without her graces are amongst the leading spirits of smart society. Every now and then an explosion takes place and the public learns with bewilderment that cheating at cards is a normal feature of smart society or that women who are courtesans in all but name are no more tabooed in smart society than they were from the pavilion at Brighton in the days of the regency.

"The secret influence on the government wielded by this common rout of Circes. Sybarites, financiers, is subtle and profound. Legislation, foreign policy and taxation are not settled in Parliament. The real decisions are made in the smart drawing rooms in the season, on Sundays in the country houses, in boudoirs and restaurants. Smart women without character, men without self-respect and a government that is too philosophical, effete, preoccupied or exhausted to see that England's greatness is slipping away from her, are the allies of this infamous confederacy."

LORD ROBERTS NOT YET MOVING ON BLOEMFONTEIN.

Rescuing Cecil Rhodes Believed to Be His Primary Object-Boers Strong Enough to Take the Offensive. Bad News from Natal.

(A. P. EARLY A.M. REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The news printed in London today throws a great light on the war situation. Lord Reberts is not engaged in a move to Bloemfontein, as had been hoped, but is at Modder River, and it is believed he intends to attack Gen. Cronje for the purpose of relieving Cecil Rhodes and the besieged city of Kimberley, whose inhabitants have been eating horse meat for five weeks, and whose death rate has grown alarmingly. Gen. IA. Although Winston Churchill telegraphs that Gen. Buller is about to make a fourth attack on the Boer front, the London papers call attention to the fact that the general has removed his headquarters from Spearman's Camp to Springfield, and apparently do not believe that Gen. Buller will attack again. As for Ladysmith, the military experts have given

LORD ROBERTS TO EASE UP OR CENSORSHIP.

He Will Make News of a Character Than England Will Rejoice to Obtain-Suffering Kimberley to Be Relieved and Bloemfontein to Be Menaced-Two Neks Retaken.

[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, Feb. 13, 4:15 a.m.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Lord Roberts has gathered 35,000 men, with whom, according to the best military opinion in London, he purposes turning the left of the Magersfontein lines, near Jacobsdal, entering the Free State, compelling Gen. jCronje to raise the slege of Kimberley, and thus making his first step toward Bioemfontein.

Yesterday Lord Roberts announced the appointment of Gen. Sir Henry Colville, hitherto commander of the Guards brigade, to the command of the Ninth Division, which is being formed, and will consist probably to a great extent of colonial troops. Gen. Colville will be succeeded by Gen. Reginald Pole Carew. Lord Roberts tells the correspondents that when he was deared to be the season of the part of the correspondents that when he was deared to be the season of the part of the season of the season of the part of the part Colville will be succeeded by Gen. Reginald Pole Carew. Lord Roberts tells the correspondents that when he gets down to business they shall have ample opportunities to send news. His chief press censor yesterday issued new rules, and in future all written communications are to go unchecked. Only telegrams will be censored. For the next few days little news is likely to get through, but later there will be more freedom. Thus says the censor, and the last clause may be interpreted to mean that something is about to happen.

Kimberley, twenty miles away from the Modder River position, is in sore straits. Details of the December death rate show that in a population of 14,000 whites and 18,000 blacks, the mortality was 60 whites and 188 blacks per thousand. The infantile death rate was 671 per thousand among the whites, and 912 per thousand among the whites, and 912 per thousand among the whites, and 1912 for things in December cannot have improved much, if at all, since, and the fighting power of the garrison must have been greatly diminished.

Meanwhile the bombardment by the Boers has increased, and there is imminent danger of the town failing under the very eyes of Lord Roberts. It is believed in circles close to the War Office that he will move at once.

Scouts have approached within a thousand yards of the Boer entrenchments at Magersfontein. They have found these strong, and ascertained

Naval gunners are constantly watching the enemy's lines with strong glasses, and they declare that there is an appreciable diminution in the Boer forces. In Natal, the Boer commandoes south of the Tugela occupy Bold's Farm and several mines west of Chieveley. Two thousand Boers with three guns are advancing through Zululand toward Natal.

The War Office is making preparations to continue the stream of troops for South Africa. Four large steamers have been chartered. Japan agrees to let the Armstrongs transfer to England four naval quick-firers that were built for her, but consenting to wait for the execution of her own order until the hostilities in South Africa are over. Several European powers, by similar consents as to guns being constructed by Vickers' Sons and Maxim, enable England to secure 100 Maxims. Two thousand men are constantly employed at Woulwich Argenal and all the gun.

[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.] LONDON, Feb. 13.—Spencer Wil-LONDON, Feb. 13.—Spencer Wilkinson, discussing the military situation in the Morning of st today, refers to a Cape Town letter, dated January 23, which asserts that Lord Roberts will allow no movement until the transport organization is complete, and says: "It is probable, therefore, that the teransport is now ready, and that the arrival of Lord Roberts at Modder River is the signal for action. It is possible that, before beginning his move, he wishes to ascertain from Lord Methuen how matters stand in his part of the theater of war, and Removal Sale this would account for a pause of a few days"

Mr. Wilkinson then discussed the question of tents or no tents, basing his observations upon a letter from Winston Churchill, in the course of which the writer explains that the immobility of the British army in Natal is due to the fact that it drags after it a huge train, mainly for tents.

"This question," says Wilkinson, "is mainly one of climate, and the choice lays perhaps between slow movements and enterio fever, but a protest against too much comfort, coming from an experienced campaigner like Winston Churchill, deserves consideration."

ESHOWE THREATENED.

(A. P. NIGHT REPORT.)

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The Pletermaritzburg correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing yesterday, says: "A dispatch from Eshowe asserts that a large commando of Boers is encamped near Ngutu with eighty wagons and nine guns. It is rumored that this force intends to besiege Eshowe, the intention probably being to fortify the Insusi Hills in order to prevent the British traversing Zuluiand to relieve Ladysmith.

BOERS LOVE PEACE.

[A. P. EARLY A.M. REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Montague
White writes to the World as follows:

"I am delighted to find that the prospects of peace are increasing. The heroic resistance of the Boers must convincingly satisfy the large body of impartial English opinion that they are fighting for the noblest principles of mankind—home, freedom and independenes.

mankind—home, freedom and independence.

"There was a strong minority in England bitterly opposed to this war from the very first. I am perfectly sure that this minority has been increased to a majority, although the sentiments of pride and prestige may prevent them from openly advocating the ceasation of hostilities. It ought not to be impossible for American sympathisers and advocates of peace to work on the lines of the conciliation committee in England and thus find a means of securing conditions of peace honorable to both parties.

means of securing conditions of peace honorable to both parties.

"Although the Beers have shown military abilities which have surprised the whole world, they are essentially peace-loving and, the very reverse of what is known as a warlike people. The fact that their existence as a people is at stake accounts for their wonderful morale and efficiency. They have means and the determination to carry on a long warfare, but I am sure that they would welcome any efforts that would enable them to beat their swords into pruning hooks, providing that an honorable and a permanent peace could be assured."

WOMEN FARMERS.

ENGLISH INSTITUTION FOR THEIR INSTRUCTION. [New York Tribune:] The Lady Warwick Hostel, at Reading, England, which has just celebrated its anniver-sary, was established with a view to affording women of culture and educasary, was established with a view to affording women of culture and education opportunity to fit themselves for the lighter branches of agriculture. Several American women have signified their intention of availing themselves of its instruction. Among the branches taught are poultry and beskeeping, dairy work, gardening and rural industries generally. Two buildings, the Maynard Hostel and Brooke House, for boarding special students have recently been added. Forty-three regular students can be accommodated with tuition and board.

The institution has acres of land under cultivation. Besides this, the the warden's garden contains six acres that will be worked as an object lesson to the students, showing what can be done on acre plots of land. A large part of this garden will be devoted to bush fruits, but an acre has been sowed with wheat and a farmyard is to be added. In a large potting shed with a thatched roof, carpenters' benches are included, and the students are taught the fundamental principles of carpentry, in order that they may be able to make frames, poultry houses or do any work of the kind that is required.

A mushroom house and greenhouse were added during the year. A rose garden is to be one of the first innovations of the coming season. The propagation of vines, bush fruits, roses

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) (BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] An effort has just been made to get the Governor of Delaware to call an extra session of the Legislature of that State to elect a United state Senator, but the Republicans here report that the attempt has failed. They say Gov. Gage of California was induced by Washington to call an extra session. The idea was to get all states having vacant Senatorships to call an extra session and elect, in the lapse that Gov. Stone of Pennsylvania would be forced to follow suit, and thes a vote upon the Quay case in the Senate would be avoided.

Br.Gov. Bradley, on being asked by Judge Taft to state the case, began at moe in a plain statement of the ground you which the action of the court is invoked. After reciting the provisions by which the State Board of Election is converted into a board of contest, he declared that they were entirely repugnant to a Republican form of government, who provides for three distinct departments. He asserted that this board of costset had been made a judicial body by the Goebel law.

There were nine members in the Senter, and Twenty-eight in the House, the committee which was expected to come from the Democratic members at Louisville to report whether it is safe for them to come to Frankfort did not but in an appearance during the day. The Republican leaders say that they expect nothing new to transpire until after Judge Taft in Cincinnat has rendered his decision Wednesday.

Late in the afternoon the detectives werking upon the Goebel assassination discovered a bullet imbedded in one of the trees in the south side of the Capital square. It struck the tree about twenty inches from the ground, and almost on a line from the executive building and, the spot where Gov. Gebel fell. A block of wood containing the bullet was cut from the tree and is now in the possession of the Prosecuting Attorney.

Both houses of the Legislature met again at the Courthouse today. When the House convened a concurrent resolution which had passed the Senate was presented calling upon the Hon. W. B. MAPPING OUT PLANS.

Governor. There is danger of a clash as long as the present positions are maintained.

The Democrats will confine their efforts to the State courts, their contention being that the Federal courts have into jurisdiction in the case. The Republicans, either by appeal or original proceedings before Judge Taft, will endeavor to get their claims before the Federal courts, but their course will depend largely upon that adopted by the Democrats.

The Court of Appeals probably will hold its next session in Louisville. When soldiers were thrown around the State buildings at Frankfort the court adjourned, declining to sit with such surroundings. Several of the judges have been here for the past week and it is believed they will not return while any soldiers or armed men remain about the State buildings. In both houses of the Legislature today was introduced a bill offerfing a reward of $100,000 for the detection of Goebel's murderer.

ALBANY (N. Y.,) Feb. 12. ALBANY (N. Y.,) Feb. 12.—Gov. Roosevit today gave out a statement relative to the Vice-Presidency, in which he declares that he will not accept the honor under any circumstances.—His statement is as follows:
"In view of the continued statements in the press that I may be urged as a candidate for Vice-President, and in view of the many letters that reach me advising for and against such a course, it is proper for me to state definitely hat under no circumstances could I or would I accept the nomination for the Vice-Presidency. It is needless to say how deeply I appreciate the honor conferred upon me by the mene desire to place me in so high and dignified a position. But it seems to me diear that at the present time my duty is here in the State whose people elected me to be Governor, Great problems have been faced and are being partly solved in this State at this time, and if the people so desire. NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—A special to the Heral from Washington savs:

"Gov. Roosevelt's positive declination to accept second place on the Presidential tieket is the leading topic of discussion tonight among Republican leadsrs in Washington. By thus putting himself out of the race, Gov. Roosevelt has reopened the field of speculation as to who would be President McKinley's running mate. The President would have been pleased to have had the Governor on the ticket with him.

"Senator Scott of West Virginia, a member of the National Committee, said he eccived information which came direct from Gov. Roosevelt, announcing rositively that he would not accept the nomination for the Vice-Presidency even if, it should be tendered to him by the unanimous vote of the national convention. "There are some of us," added Senator Scott, 'who are inclined to look to the West for a running mate for President McKinley in the next campaign. RICHMOND (Va.,) Feb 12.—W. J. Bayan this afternoon addressed an audience at the excademy of Music, made up oft he members of the Legislature and many other persons. Mr. Bryan began with an eloquent tribute to Virginia as having been a leader in all the great movements that have taken place in this country. He took occasion to eulorize Robert E. He then defined the duties eof the Legislature in view of the character of his audience as those of a servant and not the master of the people they represented and discussed the income tax, their ecurrencey and truet questions and the Philippine problem. He had found the cituation in the North and East much improved. Many gold Democrats were comingback to the party, and a number of Republicans would refuse eto support the old party on account of its position on expansion.

of the State. One of the best results of the meeting was the establishment to a greater degree than has existed for months of entente cordiale between the traffic departments of the railroads and those in authority in the organizations of the orange growers.

From 10 o'clock yesterday morning until a few minutes before 5 in the afternoon the conference was in session behind closed doors. During the meeting the proceedings were as closely guarded from the public as are those of a Masonic lodge, and even when the meeting adjourned, only the results were given out, and those who attended were careful not to disclose all that had transpired. Various surmises were made from time to time during the day as to the reason for making the meeting a secret one. One of the gentlemen who left the room for a time was asked what the reason was, and replied that there were matters under consideration which it would not do to make public; something in reserve which had to be closely guarded, and it had been thought best to exclude the public. Another of the delegates to the conference stated later that such a reason was ridiculous, and that the real reason was to secure freedom of debate without the fear that what would be said would appear in print, the intimation being that there might be things said which it would be unwise to have published. Still another reason was stated by another of those present, thus: "This meeting is called for the purpose of arriving at some agreement which will be satisfactory to all concerned. Now suppose that during the discussion it became necessary, or it should so happen that a rebates had been paid either to private car lines or to shippers, such an admission might be unwise, because the giving of rebates is contrary to law. Then, again, suppose a big shipper should have to admit that he received this or that amount in rebates, such an admission might not be understood. Of course, I only mention these things as possibilities, but you may draw your own consisuions."

Whatever may have been the reason the meeting was a secret

Those we participated in the concentration of the shippers that, as a strict-proposition of business the company was only doing what might be expected from any corporation and that it was not and had not been taking advantage of the shippers, but, on the other hand, was disposed to assist them.

Later in the day Vice-President Morton of the Santa Fé also spoke at length. He, too, gave a history of the trouble to settle which the conference had been called. He spoke of the business of the private car lines, of rebates and of the scores of other phases of the general subject of orange and general fruit shipments. From time to time there was a general discussion of some particular question. During the first three hours of the meeting the speeches covered the whole subject generally. It had been expected that the conference would resolve itself into almost a "monkey-and-parrot time," but except for some bursts of temper, and once or twice the exchange of remarks which were not calculated to maintain peace and harmony, the meeting was anything but what had been expected. There was no adjournment for luncheon, and about 2 o'clock Secretary Wiggins sent in a light lunch. After that had been disposed of the conferees seemed to get down to business in earnest. The several phases of the general question were taken up one at a time, As each was disposed of an other was considered. In this manner the final result of the meeting was attained more quickly than would have been possible any other way.

Shortly after 4 o'clock the stenographer was sent into the outer room with instructions to prepare several copies of an agreement. He did this and took the copies back with him. Then there was some objection to the wording of some of the paragraphs and another copy was ordered after the first had been discussed for nearly an hour. This second copy was agreed to and the meeting adojurned. There had been an implied agreement that the full proceedings of the meeting should not be made public then and as a result those who had participated declined to discuss what had transpired, i

WHAT THE AGREEMENT MEANS. After the adjournment of the conference some of the representatives of the shippers and of the local commercial organizations, freely admitted that while the result had not been all that they had desired, they were well satisfied with which they were well satisfied with which they had desired. isfled with what had been accom-plished. One of them went so far as to assert that they had secured more than they had expected. All of the sections of the agreemen are important to the shippers of fruit in this section, but the second and third sections are considered of great-est importance.

constitute the minimum for a carlond was another important matter, which was considered, but on this subject not much was accomplished. The railroads merely promise to "watch it; and if, after what they consider, a fair trial, it is ascertained that the establishment of the minimum weight at 26,000 pounds, results in injury to the business, they promise to restore the old minimum of 24,000 pounds.

As to the refrigerating charges, all that is promised is an investigation, and if after investigation, these charges are found to be excessive, the railroads promise to recommend a reasonable reduction.

What there is in reserve, if anything, only those who attended the meeting know. It was stated after the meeting that when the stefnographic report had been typewritten at least a portion of it would be given to the public. Who will play censor on this report, and just to what extent it will be culled, the growers may never know, for they have no means of ascertaining all that went no behind the closed doors of the meeting, and the fact that the meeting, and the

FRUIT MEN ALARMED.

ANAHEIM, Feb. 22.—[Regular Correspondence.] The present run of warm weather is causing a good deal of alarm among fruit men. The trees are so advanced that a heavy frost would now do much damage, and if the warm weather continues a few days longer no frost at all can be stood. In the orange groves the heat is having a tendency toward producing puffed fruit, and growers with late fruit still on the trees are having a scare.

ANAHEIM RREVITIES.

An unknown man was badly beaten and cut about the head in a free fight on Palm street last night. The injured man had been dripking, and late in the evening fell in with a crowd of young toughs. Incurring their displeasure he was beaten and left in the street, where he was later found and taken away by friends.

Because the Boers have made a stubborn resistance to the aggressions of the British forces, they are, forsooth, "fighting for the noblest principles of mankindhome, freedom, and independence!" On the same basis of reasoning, it is apparent to the wayfaring man, though a fool, that the British troops in South Africa are also "fighting for the noblest principles of mankind," etc., etc. For the fighting of the British troops in South Africa are also "fighting for the noblest principles of mankind," etc., etc. For the fighting of the British troops in South Africa has been quite as stubbors, and quite as gallant, as the fighting of the Boers—if not more so—though it has not been crowned with conspicuous success up to this writing.

So far as bravery and gallantry in action go, honors are even as between the British and the Boers; or, if the balance of honors is on either side, it is clearly on the side of the British, for they have been on the aggressive from the beginning, while the Boers have been on the defensive, and have had the decided advantage of superior position, in addition to the advantage that is always on the side of the defense, other things being equal. It was expected at the outset that the Boers would put up a stubborn fight, and they have done so. They have proved to be much better fighters than was anticipated, but this fact does not in any sense add to or detract from the justice of 'their cause, nor in any sense add to or detract from the justice of 'their cause, nor in any sense tend to make, the British army any more in the wrong. Naturally, under the circumstances, assertion. The trouble is that no overtures for peace are likely to come from Great Britain-at least not until her arms have won decided victories in South Africa. If Great Britain were to make overtures for peace at this timeof which there is not the least prospectthe Dy a government would reply with terms so extreme that acceptance be absolutely out of the question, and conclusion of victory for one side or the other. The following enumeration of some when that empire is fully opened to the trade of the Western World, is worth eading a second time, and perhaps a hird time. It is from a recent issue of Leslie's Weekly:

of Leslie's Weekly:

"China has long used large quantities of our petroleum. It needs our medicines, chemicals and disinfectants. It needs waterworks and sewers. It needs telegraphs, telephones and electric lights. When the sun sets, night closes over that land, and its millions seek their beds in darkness. It needs electric railways. Cities with populations in the hundred thousands, lying but a few miles apart, are without any means of communication.

"Two cities only twelve miles apart, one with a population of 1,500,000, the other of 200,000, the smaller city being the port of the larger, are still unconnected. American watches, clocks and sewing machines are finding a ready sale, and American spirits, wines and beers are taken in quantities. The Chinese are the Teutons of the Orient, as the Japanese are the Gauls, and when they become beer-drinkers, as they will, think of the supply necessary to satisfy 400,000,000 thirsty throats.

"China needs our farm machinery, threshing machines and separators. All the grain used in that country is rolled out on threshing floors and winnowed by hand fans or the vagrant winds."

So surely as China needs all these, of the proposed reciprocity treaty with France. The treaty makes a marked

So surely as China needs all these and many other things, will the United States supply her needs, in large part. Geographically, we are better situated than any nation of Europe, in reference to the development of commerce with China. Commercially and industrially, we are prepared to meet all demands upon us. With our feet firmly fixed in the Philippines, we shall be literally a next-door neighbor to the most popufore, directly and vitally interested in the development of western civilization and trade in China. These youngsters are artists of great merit, and Miss Marshall's beautiful songs tend to make the specialty one of high char-acter. The features enumerated will be continued until further notice.

BURBANK THEATER. The recep tion accorded to the Neill company upon the opening of its engagement at this theater on Sunday evening was certainly very generous, and if it may properly be regarded as an augury for the future, the engagement will no doubt be highly successful. The company comprises a number of capable people, and the repertoire includes numerous plays of absorbing interest—conditions which should afford results atisfactory alike to the public and to the players.

The play presented at the opening of the engagement is called "A Bach-elor's Romance." It was written by Martha Morton, and was originally Martha Morton, and was originally produced, if memory serves correctly, by 801 Smith Russell. The central character is that of David Holmes, a man of letters, a literary critic, devoted to books, rather absent-minded, simple-hearted, unconventional, yet possessed of sterling integrity and of genuine manhood. To summarize the story in a few words, this literary recluse, who is a bacheior in middle life, is made the guardian of a young girl, Sylvia, through the death of the latter's father, his close friend. When Sylvia arrives at the age of 17 she ac-Sylvia arrives at the age of 17 she acquires ideas of ter own, as yo.102 with men of that mature age are wont to to and through force of circumstances the entire responsibility for the personal care and training of this young blossom of womanhood is thrown upon David Holmes, the guardian. Unconsciously, he loses his heart to the young girl, who finds it without difficulty. The complications which ensue grow principally out of the struggle between love and duty, on the part of Holmes, who is supposed not to be aware of the reciprocation of his love by Sylvia. The story is a pretty one, very prettily told. It is clean and wholesome in every line and situation, is free and old alike may heed with profit. There are several forceful dramatic and old alike may heed with profit. There are several forceful dramatic situations, and the play, as a whole, is one of deep heart interest.

It is not possible, conscientiously, to commend Mr. Neill's interpretation of the leading role without several important reservations. In the act where he emerges from the coloriess life of the recluse and becomes in some degree a man of life and of action, he is admirable, and he gives to this phase of the character a degree of intelligence and mental breadth commensurate with its place in the dramatic picture. But in the other scenes, with some exceptions, his interpretation appears inadequate. In the first act and in the last, his David is quite too slow and stupid—and, if it must be said, too "doddering"—to inspire the respect, the sympathy and the admiration which the character ought to inspire in order to hold its dominant place in the play. It is, perhaps, neither necessary nor easy to point out in just what particulars Mr. Neill's evident ability and intelligence should be able, after thorough analysis, to present this character is one which will bear study; and an actor of Mr. Neill's evident ability and intelligence should be able, after thorough analysis, to present this character excites more or less of pity, and some degree of contempt. An inadering character of the play, necessarily it are the entire presentation.

Frant accidence and

ing character of the play, necessarily trars the entire presentation.
Frank ...cVicars enacts the role of erall Holmes with intelligence, and while there is nothing especially striking in his work, it is consistent and conscientious. Emmett Shackelford calcutures, rather than interprets, the character of Martin Beggs. But he shows at the hands of Holmes, his unsuccessful prize story. For this artistic bit, we can forgive much in his work that is unpleasing, inconsistent and crude. Robert Morris as Harold Reynolds is conventionally acceptable. John W. Burton presents an excellent old-man characterization as Mr. Mulold-man characterization as Mr. Mul-berry, and George Bloomquest "does the best he can," which is good in spots, as Archibald Lytton Savage. spots, as Archibald Lytton Savage.

The women in the cast are uniformly excellent. Lillian Andrews is a typical maiden lady with a voluminous vocabulary and a ready tongue, in the role of Miss Clementina. Edythe Chapman's acting, as Helen le Grand, is charming in its ease and naturalness. Grace Mae Lamkin is all that could be desired as Harriet Leicester. The Slyvia of Julia Dean is a distinct character creation, and is always found in its proper place in the picture, instinct with light and color, and altogether charming.

All the week, Wednesday, and Son ether charming.

LOS ANGELES THEATER. The Boston Lyric Opera Company opened its season at this theater on Sunday evening, presenting Von Suppe's tuneful opera. "Boccaccio," to a house that was determined to be pleased, and that excellent voice, but at times seriously overworks the tremolo, always a serious fault in a singer. When she sings without this stop in action, her voice is charming indeed.

Henry Hallam has a fine presence and a well-considered conception of the part of the Prince of Palermo. His voice is of good timber and his method is praiseworthy. A. L. Parmly scored a success in the part of Leonetto, and his interpolated song, "The Holy City," was rapturously encored, despite the fact that it was entirely out of keeping with the atmosphere of Von Supe's creation. There are other good voices, and it is easily to be seen that there is sufficient talent at the Los Angeles this week to give some very entertaining operatic performances.

The interpolation practice is pressed to the limit by the Boston singers and not always to the strengthening of the production. In such operas as "Boccaccio" it is well to give the composer full swing and not to attempt to modernize so familiar an opera as was sung on Sunday evening.

The same opera will be repeated tonight, and on Wednesday and Thursday "Martha" is underscored for production.

and think less of the days through which they have passed than of those which are to come, find this feeling more pronounced than one might expect. One reason for this is that the bills which the Governor was especially interested in have been up for action within the past three days. Another reason is His Excellency's refusal to send in the name of Sengtor F. W. Burnett of San Francisco for confirmation as port warden. He appointed Burnett soon after the close of last session, at which Burnett voted daily for Burns. This session the great grandson of the former Governor of California voted against Burns. It is said that Senator Burnett told some friends he did not, particularly care about having the place, but it is also true that last night he spoke very bitterly of the Governor as a State official. It is understood that the Governor's real reason for not appointing Burnett anew is that the law requires, but reither was Samuel Braunhart. Burnett anew is that the latter is not a master mariner, as the law requires, but neither was Samuel Braunhart, Democrat, who has been succeeded by Southern Pacific Station Agent Nickell of Los Angeles county, who runs the Acton Rooster.

of Los Angeles county, who runs the Acton Rooster.

When Democratic and Republican members alike are found gloating openly over the defeat of such measures as the so-called "Power of Removal Bill." and the Suspension of Public Land Sales Bill, the least that can be said is that a feeling of distrust has grown up against Gov. Henry T. Gage, having its primal origin, probably, in the accepted bellef that the extra session was conceived in the interest of Dan Burns. Assuredly it is rignificant that all measures specified in the Governor's call have been enacted into laws with the exception of such as might be supposed to increase such as might be supposed to increase his powers.

Members of both parties feel that the extra session has been an exceptionally successful one. There have been not over two or three measures introduced that could be probably considered "buggy" or "cinch bills," and these were amended or turned down. The patronage feature was early abandoned, and though resolutions were adopted today making half a dozen or so of attachés beneficiaries to the extent of $30 or $40 each of State's money, they apparently are necessary to the winding-up of the State's business, and nobody complained. The cost of the thirteen-day session will be in the winding-up of the State's business, and nobody complained. The cost of the thirteen-day session will be in the neighborhood of $33,000, but it is asserted that this session and the prior session taken together have cost less than the last session of Gov. Budd's administration. The additional facilities afforded San Francisco's commerce by increase of the Harbor Commission's powers in regard to dockage would, alone, almost justify the expense of the extra session, and when the outcome of the fight against Burnsism is considered, no limit on the value of the session can be placed. The Democrats think they have cause to reioice that the Power of Removal Bill was not passed, for they believe that Democrats employed by the State along the San Francisco water front would have had to give way for Renublicans, in the event of its passage.
It is even asserted in some quarters that Burns would have paid his obligations for the support of individual members by patronage derived from this source, had the outcome been different from what it was.
Senator Braunhart's resolution, adopted by both houses, requesting

Congress to help amend the Constitu-tion so as to provide for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, is a notable feature of the session. A proposition by Brown of San Mateo to allow the peo-ple to express their choice for Senator at the polls, the State Legislature to be guided by that expression, passed the Assembly, but was tied up in the Senate. When Fairweather (Dem.) of Freeze county, wanted a constitutional Senate. When Fairweather (Dem.) of Fresno county, wanted a constitutional amendment to put to the people, which would allow inhabitants of counties to frame their own local government acts, the Assembly, under the leadership of Dibble, sat upon his proposition heavily. Mayor Believes That the Money Now in the Treasury Should Be Used Contest for City Printing-Water

Mayor Eaton vesterday sent a mes-Mayor Eaton yesterday sent a message to the Council recommending that the money now at the disposal of the city from the collection of interest and sinking fund on the $2,090,000 issue of water bonds, be immediately applied to the building of headworks as proposed when the bonds were issued. City Attorney Haas and Lee & Scott, City Attorney Hans and Lee & Scott, associate counsel for the city in the water litigation, are of the opinion that the money that will accumulate in the city treasury during the present year as interest and sinking fund, can be applied at once to the work of beginning the headworks on the Pomeroy & Hooker lands. After a consultation with the Mayor it was decided that the infiltration galleries could be commenced, and the city would not be compelled to wait until the validity of the bonds has been passed upon by the courts. The attorneys for the city hold that the funds now in the treasury can be used only for the purposes for which the bonds were issued, and that either the building of the headworks must be begun or the money allowed to lie idle in the treasury until the sale of the bonds is consummated. The Mayor's message is as follows:

"To the Honorable City Council—Gentlemen: I am advised by our City Attorney and the associate counsel retained for the water litigation that thermoney already received or to be received hereafter by the City Treasurer from taxpayers, on account of the water-bond interest and sinking fund, can be applied by the city at any time to the construction of any works included in the purposes for which the said bonds were voted.

I recommend that your honorable body proceed at once to let a contract for the construction of the main infiltration gallery in the Pomeroy & Hooker headworks site. This one gallery will collect sufficient water for the needs of the city for some time to come, and the engineers estimate of its cost is within the sum that can be made available for the purpose, as the city's receipts this year on account of the water-bond interest and sinking fund will amount to $130.-000. In making use of this fund in the manner proposed, the first series of the bond issue, amounting to $52,250, to $52,250,

AFTER DR. J. W. GOING. The Prisoner Discharged on Habeas

On looking over the testimony taken at the preliminary examination, Dist.-Atty. Rives came to the conclusion that Going had been held for the that Going had been held for the wrong offense under the circumstances. No information was filed charging false pretenses, but the grand-larceny complaint was filed instead. Going's attorney, W. H. Shinn, Esq., petitioned Saturday for a writ of habeas corpus, and, as soon as Judge Smith understood the circumstances the prisoner was released from his former charge. Going's alleged offense is said to be on all fours with the swindling operations of Campbell and Spencer, the nortorious crooks who were taken north on all fours with the swindling operations of Campbell and Spencer, the nor torious crooks who were taken north only two or three weeks ago to serve ten years each for swindling young Seagraves out of $500. They got the money by a trick, as defined under the statute. Campbell pretended to be the owner and proprietor of a local lumber company of magnitude, and to be desirous of employing a collector, under $500 security, to succeed Spencer, who was quitting the job for something better. Seagraves answered their "want" advertisement. They baited their hook; Seagraves bit.

Going, in the case now under way, is alleged to have received $300 from Young to induce Casey, a purported man of wealth and the same sort of an almost dead invalid to purchase his ranch out on the San Gabriel River for more than its value. Going, Young avers, represented to him that Casey would buy anywhere his physician, who was Going, would advise. And Going thought that $300 ought to be put up as a commission in the event of a successful deal. The wealthy Casey proved a myth, as far as money and health were concerned, and Young swears that he has never seen the color of his $300 since.

The line of demarkation between grand larceny and obtaining money under false pretenses is very difficult of recognition until testimony has been taken in the specific case, and so it was

MAIN POINT IN THE FIGHT IS WON BY WILSHIRE.

WON BY WILSHIRE.

Yesterday H. G. Wilshire won the main point in the fight being waged against the bill-posting company on account of the high and unsightly advettising frames which disfigure many parts of Los Angeles.

In an effort to rid the city of the nuisance the City Council passed an ordinance some time ago fixing the hill-board license at $75 per quarter, with an additional license of $150 per quarter for the maintenance of billboards over six feet high from a point beginning three feet above the surface of the ground.

The ordinance was passed during three feet above the surface of the ground.

The ordinance was passed during the latter part of 1899, but the former license held by the bill-posting company did not expire until the beginning of the present year. At that time, however, the company did not renew its license, and shortly after Chief of Police Elton assumed office three companies were filed against H. G. Wilshirs in order to have the ordinance tested in the courts. The first complaints were filed against H. G. Wilshirs was for carrying on the billing the other two referred more particularly to that portion of the ordinance covering that portion of the ordinance. The high billboards, liter posed demurrers to the complaints, under advisement for several days, in the first case and sustained the other two.

In overruling the first demures the court of the passes of the first case and sustained the court.

CLUBS OF WOMEN. ANGELES AND VENTURA CLUBS IN SESSION. tion of the Los Angeles Ebell Listens to an Address on Mus-ical Cemposition—Wednesday Morn-Club Studies Current Events.

The feature of yesterday's meeting of the music section of the Ebell was an address by Edwin H. Clark on "Com-position." The chief points made in Mr. Clark's lecture were illustrated by instrumental work and singing by Mrs.

and Harry Barnhardt. Mr. Clark said, in substance:

"Not all who have great gift for music otherwise are able to compose. Many have intimations of beautiful melodies, but lose them when they try to put them on paper.

"Modern composers have not paid as strict attention as did the older masters to the laws of harmony. Wasper and other moderns have frequently transgressed these laws for the sake of securing certain new effects. Each composer has his individual method of work. The young composer will do well to study some master carefully, analyze his methods and familiarize with the means by which he produces his effects.

"The old masters are usually exalted over all modern composers, but in some respects, at least, modern music has made progress. This is especially true of operatic music, perhaps, in which a dramatic effect is attained that the old masters could hardly equal. In Brahms, Rubinstein and others, you will find some remarkable harmony progressions and color."

WEDNESDAY MORNING CLUB. WEDNESDAY MORNING CLUB.
The Current Events section of the Wednesday Morning Club met, as usual, in Assembly Hall, East Los Angeles, Monday afternoon. Many subjects of exceeding interest were discussed, the most important of which were the work of the recent session of the Legislature in California; the trouble between fruit men and the railroads; the canteen law; the conditions now existing in Alaska; the Mafia in Italy; the comparatively strained relations between France and England; the expected appearance of the Hindoo God Vishnu, and the work of the Hindoo religion in America.

THE BICYCLE.

ITS HIGHEST EFFICIENCY IS

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—It would seem that science is leaving very little undiscovered as to the various factors which enter into the securing of the maximum of the bievele. Among other questions that of resistance has been very fully investigated. The greatest resistance in the bicycle is due to wind pressure the next to the tire, and by far the least to the transmitting mechanism. The air resistance varies with the pressure of the air, the velocity of the machine and the area exposed. It is now determined that by bending forward the rider can reduce the area exposed for resistance to about bending forward the rider can reduce the area exposed for resistance to about 1.5 square feet. There is said to be an enormous difference in the tire resistance an difference in the tire resistance and different makes. The efficiency of the worst make is put at 42 per cent. A fractical way of putting these figures is the statement that other things being equal, with the same expenditure of energy a rider would cover 70 miles with a boad one. Figures on the loss of energy in chainless gears are about uniform in different makes, a slight advantage being shown in every case over the chain wheel. The loss of energy by chain gear is comparatively slight, the best makes showing only 2 per cent. In transmission, while the worst give 10 per cent. It will thus be seen that a good tire is one of the most important factors in asing the energy developed using the energy developed cossible.

NEGROES AS AUTHORS.

THEIR BOOKS TO BE A FEATURE OF EARIS, EXPOSITION.

THEIR BOOKS TO BE A FEATURE OF EARIS, EXPOSITION.

[Washington Post:] In connection with the ethibit at the Paris Exposition, showing the progress that has been made by the negro population of the United States, a work is now in hand which will really be one of the most interesting features. It is the collection for display at the exposition of the literary works of negroes of this country, and the number of authors of African descent will assuredly astonish themillions who visit the gay French city this year.

To the unward of $1,200,000 already appropriated, $169,500 will be added when the Senate basses the deficiency bill. Of this sum $15,000 is mentioned specifically to be devoted to the completion of the negro exhibit, which will be superinteded by Thomas J. Callaway, formerly of the Treasury Department, a graduate of Fiske University and late president of Alcorn University in Mississipp. The collection and forwarding to Faris of the literary exhibit has within a few days been put in operation under the charge of Daniel Murray, long known to every frequenter of the Congressional Library, in response to a request of Commissioner-General Peck made to Librarian Putnam. Mr. Murray is given authority to select from works by colored authors which are in the library or another coules of the works scattered throughout the country which are not so incaded.

Although Mr. Murray has bet well graphia of colored Americans, he has already in sight more than one thousand volumes, representing 190 authors. Not all of the books secured will be sent to the exposition. Only works of real literary merit will be forwarded, from the hands of authors whose merit has been recognized.

literary merit will be forwarded, from the hands of authors whose merit has been recognized.

One just received, and which was not in the library is "The Philadelphia Negro; a Social Study," by W. E. Burghardt Dubois, Ph. D., who has been assistant in sociology at the University of Pennsylvania, which publishes this volume of 500 pages; who is now professor of history and economics in Atlanta University, and is author of the "Suppression of the African Slave Trade."

Of course the works of the late Frederick Douglass will be included in their completeness. One of the qualitest exhibits will be the poems of Phyllis Wheatley, written near the close of the last century. Several of her poems she dedicated to George Washington, and for this she was recognized by a most complimentary autograph letter from Washington, and an invitation to visit him. Phyllis was born a slave. When, as a little girl, she was put upon the auction block at Boston to be sold, she was purchased by a lady looking for a servant. Being attractive, she was promoted to lady's maid, and was so well taught by the daughter of her mistress that she blossomed into a poet, and was famous in her day.

A curious volume of the collection will be "A Colored Man's Reminiscences of President Madison." The author, her day.

A curious volume of the collection will be "A Colored Man's Reminiscences of President Madison." The author. Paul Jennings, was the son of a slave of President Madison, his father being an Englishman. The mother was of Indian as well as African blood. When Paul grew up he became the body servant of Madison, and so served until the death of the President. In 1865, at the sale of the effects of a colored man who had been for years a messenger of the House of Representatives, there was sold an autograph of Daniel Webster. which now appears in facsimile on the fly leaf of these reminiscences of Jennings. It reads:

"WASHINGTON, March 19, 1847.—I have paid $120 for the freedom of Paul Jennings. He agrees to work out the sum at $2 a month, to be found with board, clothes and washing—to begin when we return from the South. His freedom papers I give him; they are recorded in this district.

"DANIEL WEBSTER."

This sum was paid for Jennings to Mrs. Dolly Madison, the most famous freedom papers I give him: they are recorded in this district.

"DANIEL WEBSTER."

This sum was paid for Jennings to Mrs. Doily Madison, the most famous of all the ladies of the White House.

Mrs. Frances Harper, in antebellum days an associate on the platform with Frederick Douglass, will be represented by her poems and her one novel, "Iola Leroy." A "History of the Negro Race" is by George W. Williams, who was appointed Minister to Hayti in the expiring hours of the Arthur administration, and was confirmed by the Senate only to be left by the succeeding administration. "The Sun Do Move." by Parson John Jasper, will be in the collection, with a life of Jasper by E. A. Randolph, another negro. One of the most remarkable of negro authors is Charles W. Chestnut of Ohlo, whose dialect stories, the most important of which is the "Conjure Woman," are compared favorably with those of Page.

A book which excited much comment when published is "Behind the Scenes," by Mrs. E. Keckley, who is yet living in this city. She was seamstress in the family of President Lincoln, and was induced to print what she saw and heard in the private household of the President, much to the indignation of many. "Johning the Navy," by another Washingtonian, John E. Paynter, was so much admired that it was placed in the libraries of all the government vessels. Paynter was a colored cadet, and tells of his travels with a cadet ship to all parts of, the world.

James M. Trotter, late Recorder of Deeds for the District, is the author of "Musica and Some Highly Musical People." T. G. Steward, a graduate of Wilberforce University and a chaplain in the army, is author of "Genesis Reread," and has been practically commissioned to write a history of the colored troops in the war with Spain. He is now in the Philippines. D. Augustus Straker of Michigan is the author of three notable law books, one of which has been commended by members of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Booker T. Washington will have his "Guess and Some commended by members the Supreme Court of the United States.

Booker T. Washington will have his "Future of the American Negro" and "Black Belt Diamonds" in the collection, and Paul Laurence Dunbar his "Poems of Cabin and Field," "Lyrios of the Lowly," and his novel, "Uncalled." Mrs. Dunbar is also an author of novels, "The Goodness of St. Rocque" and "Violets."

Other notable colored authors who will be in the exhibit are Richard Allen, founder of the A.M.E. church, and will be in the exhibit are Richard Allen, founder of the A.M.E. church, and the first colored bishop; Bishop Daniel A. Paine, founder of Wilberforce University; Rev. J. W. C. Pennington, seventy-five years ago counted one of the most learned men of his day, and at one time pastor of a white Presbyterian congregation in Connecticut; Bishops Tanner and Wayman; David Walker, whose "Appeal," published eighty years ago, created a sensation; Joseph T. Wilson, author of "The Black Phalanx," and James M. Whitefield, a Buffalo barber poet.

There are scores of colored people who earn good money with their pens in magazines and weeklies, but who are not book makers. Among these are Miss Barbara Pope and Mrs. William E. Matthews of this city, Mrs. Victoria Earle of New York, Miss Ida Platt of Chicago and Prof. R. T. Greener, now Consul at Vladivostok, whose recent information in regard to the Siberian railroad attracted national attention.

CELEBRATION OF THE DAY.

[San Francisco Chronicle:] As everybody knows, Christ was not born on December 25, and Christmas, though celebrating his birth, is really a survival of the heathen festival—among the Celts called Yule and by the Romans Saturnalia—celebrating the turning point of the year and the henceforth increasting power of the sun. On this account the Puritans denounced Christmas as a heathen and Popish feast, and did not observe it. During the commonwealth they carried their objections into force and forbade the celebration of Christmas. In 1644 Parliament ordered December 25 to be kept as a solemn fast, and that all people should pass the day in hundly bemoaning the great national sin which they and their ancesiors had hitherto committed on that day by eating boar's head, drinking ale flavored with roasted apples, devouring plum pudding and romping under the mistletoe. For twelve years this order remained in force.

Municipal authorities also sought to reduce Christmas day to the level of other days. We are told that "upon Wednesday, December 22, 1847, the cryer of Canterbury, by the appointment of Master Maior, openly proclaimed that Christmas day and all other superstitious festivals should be put down, and that a market should be kept upon a Christmas day."

For attending services, in the cathedral on that day many people were mobbed. The inhabitants divided themselves into two parties—the Christmasites and the anti-Christmaslites and came to blows.

On December 24, 1652, an order in council was issued, proclaiming "that no observation shall be had of the five-and-twentieth day of December, commonly called Christmas day, nor any solemnity used or exercised in churches upon that day in respect thereof."

But the restoration of King Charles was also the restoration of King Charles was also the restoration of King CELEBRATION OF THE DAY.

This is what makes descriptions of celebrations of Puritan Christmases in America so absurd. The Pilgrims kept no Christmas.

VARIOUS RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY THE PRESIDENT.

ion of Teachers Discussed in His Address-New Plan Suggested. Important Subject of Health and Hygiene Treated at Length in 'the Address-Assignments of Teachers.

The most important matters before the Board of Education at its meeting last evening were brought up in the address of President Davis. The speaker called attention to numerous subjects on which, he urged, the representatives of the city's educational interests should take action without delay. In his address he called attention to the progress already made in improving the appearance of some of the schoolrooms by harmonizing colors in decorations.

Another matter to which the attention of the board was called was that of the selection of teachers, whereby the schools should have the benefit of more expert skill in passing upon the qualifications of applicants. While appreciating the difficulty in attempting to make the choice of teachers scientifically, the speaker suggested that a new plan be adopted; a plan by which the applicants must first pass an examining sommittee of expert educators or teachers, and the board then select from the ones approved by the experts.

"Such a committee," said Mr. Davis, "sould doubtless eliminate much undestrable material which would otherwise owne before the board or the committee, and thus save time, as well as allow a closer scrutiny of those appearing. The board would then have only to decide between the selected applicants, and would be aided by the judgment of these experts. If a condition to the appointment of such expert committee were an agreement by each that he or she would not directly or indirectly urse upon other members of the committee support for an applicant, this public statement would be a protection to the committee, both from within or without, and would leave them untrammeled and influential in their actions. If such barrier could be once fixed, it would, I believe, have a great influence in preventing for the future a political or bersonal pressure in the choice of teachers, and thus protect the schools from their greatest danger."

COMMISSION ON HYGIENE.

Perhaps the most important feature treated by the president was the sub-children. On this subject the speaker said:

"Without health the child cannot learn effectively; the schools do him litting cod comparatively, and the expense is side education is therefore largely wasted to the State; his ill health is an expense to the parents; if he grows to manhood weak or uncured he is inefficient, contributes little or nothing to the public or his family, and finally becomes a burden on the family or on the State. Beyond all that he may became a father and weight the public for years of decades, by transmitting weakness and idleness, with their tendencies to vagrancy, pauperism and crime. It contributes importance to the family and to the State alike, that the rising reneration be encouraged to grow healthy and physically strong. We attempt to contribute to this end by good yentilation and heating of the schools, by careful lighting of the rooms, by softened and harmonious colorings, and by the recently introduced examinations of the eyes. It is even urged that these examinations should be extended to the effer and teeth, in the same unobjectionable way as is pursued with the child youth less adapted to the struggle for life than will be those of other local-ities, whose health has been cherished and intelligently guarded and culti-and intelligently guarded and cuttivated.

"Other places are making scientific studies of childhood in the schools, with the view not only of conserving health, but of determining the most efficient and successful methods of education, and of conforming the studies to the mental and physical development of the child. Investigations by measurements are being made at various places; and the physical growth is being watched, in order to so adjust the studies and exercises as to educate and develop the child with the smallest drain upon his energy and strength. Here we have peculiar physiological and hygienic problems, and we must make our examinations, to some extent at least, independently of the rest of the country. "Such an investigation should include a study of childhood; the physical and mental development, and the periods of growth; weaknesses and abnormal conditions, the health and strength of the child here as compared with children in other localities; the especial dangers to be watched, the precautions and the correctives to be attempted and other incidental but related subjects necessary to a comprehensive and complete consideration of the problem and of its solution."

It would be no light undertaking. It would mean much labor, upon carefully elaborated plans, shared in by many observers, and systemasized, harmonised and maintained until data were obtained which would give certainty to the conclusions reached. Some good would be realized without any delay, for the very fact that the attention of an intelligent body of cittiens was directed to the consideration of the heath of the school children, would theef stimulate the attention of parents and teachers to the matter, and this, in turn, would interest the children, sind all would make for the general good.

"Southern Chilfornia has among her people the students and scientists who can conduct this work; their public spirit, and that of our people will impel them to do it; but it will have to be done under the auspices of this board, and we shall have to inaugurate it. The expense will be small, and doubtless Council will cooperate generously for public undertaking of this movement."

"These considerations apply to any locality. But the subject is forced upon its with greater emphasis, because our climate draws many weak and sickly families to our midst, and the children of invalid parents, even if healthy, necessarily inherit weakness instead of strength, and so need especial attention to their physical condition, in order to overcome the tendencies or weaknesses of the present. If these tendencies are not met and overcome in these children, the inevitable result in the near future must be the physical deterioration of the youth of Southern California, and that must effect the mental development and strength, thus leaving these youth less adapted to the struggle for youth less adapted to the struggle for the first to be completed.

THE YIELD OF HONEY. The New York Evening Post, in presenting the views of a dealer in honey on the yield of that product, observes that for the first time in many years the honey yield in this country has practically failed. Dealers report frequent and large importations from Jamaica, Mexico and Europe to supply the demand. This year's home supply of comb and liquid is less than last season's, which was small enough; following the scarcity of 1898, it has spread consternation among bee-owners. Further comment on the situation elicits the following: "It is safe to say that honey has advanced 40 per cent. in price in two years; in some cases it has doubled. Two years ago it was selling for a little more than 4 cents a pound; today it commands 9 cents. The falling off in quantity of this season's product is very great. In 1897 New York City received from California 500 carloads; in 1898, 100, and in 1899 about 60. In the East, Vermont has produced nothing, and St. Lawrence county in New York, which sent out 4000 crates in 1898, furnished last fail about 200. Clover-comb honey has risen from 12 to 18 cents a pound and buckwheat honey from 8 to 12 cents. At present it pays to import foreign liquid honey, with a duty of 20 cents a gallon."

February 3, shows a further pronounced advance in this important industry. Returns indicate not only further substantial inprovement compared with the past three years, but the highest aggregate valuation ever reported. During 1898 the upward tendency broadened and deepened, and the present report shows a valuation of all classes of farm animals of $2,58,00,000. This is the highest record ever made, and an increase in this form of farm wealth of 15½ per cent during the year. Among the interesting facts brought out in the report it is shown that for the first time since the general improvement began every class of live stock shares in the improvement, both in average value per head and total tion of live stock on the farm previously reported, says the American Agriculturiat, was in 1859, when it aggregated $2,507,000,000. This valuation was reasonably uniform, until 1892, when the depression began. In four years, or by January 1, 1896, the shrinkage in this form of wealth wat about 25 per cent. the total valuation at that date being only $1,860,000,000. From then to the present year the upward trend has been pronounced, as shown above. During the past year there has been an advance in the average price per head of horses on farms of 12 per cent.; milch cows. 10 per cent.; other cattle, 19 per cent.; sheep, 8 per cent, and hogs, 19 per cent. In the present upward swing only cattle other than milch cows and sheep have passed the best previous record of price per head. Milch cows have not yet quite equaled it. Horses and mules are still far below their best record, and hogs can yet advance materially without reaching the previous record.

SPITE HIS BLINDNESS, in the Churchman:] "To the end of my life," said Prescott in middle age, "I trust I shall never put up with a smaller average than seven hours of intellectual occupation daily. Less than that can-not discharge my duties to mankind, satisfy my own feelings or give me a rank in the community of letters." These are noble words, we feel, even from the ordinary uncrippled man of letters, dependent upon his pen. But the great historian of Spairs and her tractions conquests was not in this pothe great historian of Spairs and her American conquests was not in this position. Totally blind in one eye, and unable to use the other more than half an hour a day, he was further tempted to excuse himself from work by the possession of wealth, which made him entirely independent of literary labor. Added to this was the fact by his own account, that he disliked extremely to work. He actually made a system of fines for himself and at one time gave a bond to his secretary to pay him $1000 if 250 pages of "Ferdinand and Isabella" were not written within the year. Yet he left behind him a series of great histories, more fascinating than romances, and written with an accuracy and exquisite finish of style which have made Prescott's name famous among historians.

For six years he toiled patiently at so thorough a preparation for general literary labor that very few people with their eyesight could have kept pace with him. He read Latin, French, Italian and Spanish, studying the classics in each language thoroughly, and not neglecting the great English authors. Spanish history grew to attract him more and more; and finally, in 1826, at 30 years of age, he decided to write a history of the reign of Ferdinand and Isabella. He wrote in his decision: Johnson says, in his life of Milton that no man can compile a history who is blind. But although I should lose the use of my vision altogether by the blessing of God, if my ears are spared me, I will disprove the assertion." Gathering books and manuscripts from all sources, he found his secretary almost useless to him, since he could not read Spanish. But Prescott was not the man to be daunted. He taught the reader to pronounce Spanish without understanding it, and though the result was, he laughingly said, "slow and melancholy," yet when they had toiled their way through seven quartos of Mariana's history, "I found I could understand the book when read about two-thirds as fast as ordinary English."

After a while he found a skilled Spanish roomsequence, Every day, from 10 to?

After a while he found a skilled Spanish reader, and the work became easier in consequence. Every day, from 10 to 2, and from 6 to 8, the reading went on and the historian then took notes by a peculiar process, not requiring the use of his eye, but which required great skill and patience on the part of a copyist. Three years and a half of this careful preparation went by before he began to write a line of "Ferdinand and Isabella," and so slowly and carefully did he work, when he had begun, that in sixteen months only 300 pages were written, the secretary copying after him.

Ten years elapsed before the book after him.

Ten years elapsed before the book was finished, during which time Prescott lost his little daughter, whom he tenderly loved—the greatest sorrow of his life. When the history was ready tenderly loved—the greatest sorrow of his life. When the history was ready for a publisher its success was so doubted by the author that he only had 500 copies printed. They were all taken at once, and orders poured in for more. In a few weeks the historian's name was established. But he did not stop there. "The Conquest of Mexico" and "The Conquest of Peru," each written with the same persistent, systematic, unremitting labor, followed, and then "Philip the Second" rounded out the list. His fame made him especially happy, because of the nleasure it gave to his father, whom he only survived for a dozen years or so, dying in 1859. His last request—a very touching one—was that, after his death, his body should be laid for a little time among his precious books, where he had worked so long and so happily. It is with that picture of him that we leave him. As the poet said of another strenuous and studious worker in his last rest: "Dead, he lay among his books."

in his last rest:
"Dead, he lay among his books."
The peace of God was in his looks."
Surely as long as American literature is read, our great historian, triumphant over almost overwhelming obstacles, brave, patient, loving, conquering, will be an inspiration to all his successors and to every reader who knows his story.

assault and battery today, the jury disagreed and the members were discharged about 5 o'clock. They were out two heurs and stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction. The case was rontinued and probably will not be tried again. Mrs. Burnham will immediately bring an action for divorce. It will be remembered that Mrs. Burnham caused her husband to be arrested last month on the charge of insanity and the arrest caused a great sensation. The captain was discharged on this complaint and since has been living here with his son. The arrest for assault followed, as had been threatened, and the hearing occupied the whole day in Justice Merriam's court, James McLachlan appearing for Mrs. Burnham and G. A. Gibbs for the defendant.

Mrs. Burnham testified that on the evening of December 13, when Capt. Burnham, who took his meals out of the house, started to go to dinner, she told him she intended to go with him. He said she shouldn't and after some words grabbed her by the wrist and struck her with his cane twice across the arm, once over the shoulder and again over the head. She fell to the floor and never has recovered from the injuries, her left arm being paralyzed. She came into court in a chair, attended by a colored man and a white nurse.

injuries, her left arm being paralyzed. She came into court in a chair, attended by a colored man and a white nurse.

Dr. Van Slyck testified that he was called to attend Mrs. Burnham the next morning and found two bruises on the left arm and a sprain of the back which causad great suffering. He should say the injuries were caused by a blow. It was a week before she could get out of bed and into a chair, and recently she suffered an attack of peritoalitis, which he attributed to the injuries.

Sophia Wassman, a servant, testified that she saw the affair, and the captain pushed Mrs. Burnham aside, when she fell and he fell on her. She did not see him strike her.

The defendant stated that he started to so out of the back door that evening, on purpose to avoid his wife, but she insisted in hectoring him by declaring she would go too. He pushed her aside and she fell into the doorpurposely, as he thought. He did not fall on to her. He admitted shaking his cane at her, but denied striking her.

Raiph Burnham, son of the purities, testified that his mother made a dive for him as he went out that evening, but as he elided her, she exclaimed, "Never mind! You're not the one I'm after!" Raiph made a sensation by declaring that the reputation of his mother for truth and veracity was bad in the neighborhood.

Some of the captain's old army friends testified that his mother made a dive fendant $10 for contempt of coust, because he insisted on talking when ordered to stop; but after the hearing the fines were remitted. There were many stormy passages, the attorpers getting quite tempestious and Jumpy. Capt. Hurnham was littred to much trascibility because Aftorney McLachlan made his gestures so near the old warrior's face.

FULLERTON. GREAT OIL ENTHUSIASM.
FULLERTON, Feb. 12.—[Regular FULLERTON, Correspondence. The rush of oil men, prospectors and nivestors to the local field continues unabated, and the town is fairly afire with enthusiasm. In the field progress is being made by leaps and bounds. The farther pushed the more it appears that the entire territory is rich in resources. The recent strike in the Scott well, which is being equipped for pumping, was particularly pleasing along this line, indicating the presence of a strong etratum in a territory where there was some doubt.

A GOOD OUTLOOK.

in a territory where there was some doubt.

A GOOD OUTLOOK.

Fourteen town lots were sold last week. Each purchaser will build a house. Most of them will be comfortable cottages, erected by the owners for their own use. Nearly all of these are strangers, brought largely by interests in the oil fields. The availability of plenty of water has put the ranchers in tributary territory in excellent position, and with the strong agricultural backing thus given the town in connection with the heavier oil-field business, the outlook for the place during the year is considered the very best it has ever had.

FULLERTON BREVITIES.

By the breaking of a seat fastening, James Henry, a temster, was thrown from his wagon this morning and severely hurt. Two tibs were broken. Oranges are being shipped steadily. A good deal of calling has recently been necessary to dispose of puffed fruit, local packers refusing to send out anything but good grade goods. It is charged, however, that one shipper has recently hauled out inferior fruit to ship from other points under a Fullerton label, and severe criticism is being made.

GOLF TAKING A HOLD ON SANTA ANA VALLEY PEOPLE.

New Clubhouse Back of El Modena Completed-Plans and Specifications for the New Courthouse Accepted. Heavy Mortgage Filed-Newport Company Going After Asphaltum.

SANTA ANA, Feb. 12. — [Regluar Correspondence.] Golf is apparently taking a firm hold on the residents of this valley since the organization of the club in this city, Orange and Tustin. The clubhouse, located on the hills back of El Modena, consists of dressing-rooms, a large reception-room and a spacious porch, from which the players may be watched. The work on this bulkling is completed, and a force of workmen have been started to putting the greens in proper condition. The work will now be hurried along, so that by the first of March the grounds will be ready for use. Professional players from abroad have visited the grounds, and they are pronounced as "sporty" as any links on the coast. The grounds will consist of nine links, and the distance around will be 2930 yards. The club now has a memberghip of thirty-five, or more, and as soon as playing begins it is expected that this number will be largely increased.

The Board of Supervisors today passed a resolution formally accepting the plans and specifications of C. L. Strange of Los Angeles for the new county courthouse. The resolution accepting the plans and specifications provide that the structure must be erected for a sum not to exceed $85,000. The architect is bound to visit the building at least once every two weeks during the construction of the same, and he gives a bond in the sum of $5000, with I. B. Newton, Conrad Scherer and L. J. Christopher, all of Los Angeles, as sureties, for the faithful performance of his duties. The price agreed upon for the plans and specifications is $2400. Now that the plans have been accepted, the Supervisors will at once advertise for bids on the construction of the building, with the expectation that the structure will be ready for occupancy by or shortly after the first of next year. The Newport Oil Company has abandoned the oil proposition, and has now begun a search for the asphaltum that was found while boring for oil. This asphaltum was found in both the experimental oil wells sunk by the company, but at a greater depth than desired. An ordinary water well is now being put down within a few hundred feat of the blurks, in the hope that the asphaltum will be found at not more than 125 feet, in which evenit is proposed to tunnel into this valuable deposit. It is believed there is practically an unlimited quantity of a very high grade of asphaltum in this section of the Santa Ana Valley.

ELECTRIC POSTAL SERVICE. SANTA MONICA. Feb. 12.—[Regular Correspondence.] A system of electric rallway mail service twice per day each way and closed pouches once each way between Los Angeles and Santa Monica and Ocean Park is to be insurgered pour each way between Los Angeles and Santa Monica and Ocean Park is to be inaugurated next Monday. The electric mail car, which in part is also to be used for light express service, has been constructed in Los Angeles and is to be ready for its initial trip on that date. The route of that car is to be by way of Colegrove, so that it will give direct service to the post-offices at Colegrove, Sherman, Sawtelle, Santa Monica and Ocean Park and run near enough to the Soldiers' Home to afford quick connection with that point. The schedule of mails, as fixed for that car, is provisional and may be changed if the needs of the service require it. According to the present arrangement the afternoon outgoing mail will close at the Santa Monica postoffice at 3:30 p.m. That mail will be put on the electric postal car leaving Santa Monica at 3:40 p.m. It is intended that the car shall run on a schedule sufficiently fast to reach Los Angeles so that all mail it has collected on the route for outlying points such as Santa Ana, San Bernardino, San Pedro and Riverside may be put on the evening trains leaving Los Angeles for those points. Probably the mest important incoming mail will be the one arriving in Santa Monica on the postal car at 10:45 a.m. It is intended that on that run the car shall bring mails which have come into Los Angeles on the morning trains from all parts of Southern California.

The new service is doubtless due in a large measure to the recommendations of Superintendent Thrall of the Railway Mail Service for the Pacific Coast States. Superintendent Thrall was in Santa Monica a few weeks ago and had a conference with Postmaster Dexter, in which the local situation with reference to mail service was quite fully explained.

When he was before Justice Morgan a week ago, through the tirgent appeal of his attorney, Hugh J. Late last Saturday afternoon a Chimaman fired off a string of firecrackers on Los Angeles street, near the Plaza, as a windup to the celebration of the Chinese New Year. A team attached to a farm wagon belonging to a Sawanna man, which was standing near by, became frightened and started to run away. The king bolt came out, and the horses, being released from the wagon, started for home as if pursued by a band of Boers, but were captured by a band of Boers, but were captured by an alert bystander.

Policeman Arguello, who was attracted to the scene, was devoting his attention to the Chinaman for shooting firecrackers after the celebration was over.
